

BANNER FESTIVAL

2008

A sporadic tradition returns to the village just in time for spring. The banner festival is a chance for villagers to create beautiful, colorful work to brighten the streets just when we think we can't bear any more grey winter skies.

This year six local artists contributed banners from years past and created new banners especially for 2008. Their names and titles of the banners are on each post so, as you walk the streets you can see who created the work above. Maybe your name will appear in 2009.
